

Company Leave Policy

1. Purpose and Scope

This Company Leave Policy establishes a consistent framework for requesting, approving, recording, and managing employee leave. The policy applies to all regular employees of the organization unless a specific employment agreement or applicable law provides a different entitlement. The purpose is to support employee wellbeing while ensuring that teams maintain adequate staffing and business continuity.

2. Types of Leave

Employees may be eligible for annual or earned leave, casual leave, sick leave, public holidays, and other statutory or company-specific leave categories. Leave eligibility and entitlement may vary according to employment status, length of service, location, and applicable regulations. Employees should consult the official leave balance maintained by the organization before making plans that require an extended absence.

3. Leave Request and Approval

Employees are expected to submit leave requests through the designated HR or attendance system as early as reasonably possible. Planned leave should normally be requested in advance so that managers can arrange workload coverage. Approval is subject to business requirements, team capacity, and applicable leave rules. An employee should not assume that leave is approved merely because a request has been submitted.

4. Sick and Emergency Leave

When illness or an unexpected emergency prevents an employee from attending work, the employee should inform the reporting manager as soon as practicable. Supporting documentation may be requested where required by company rules or law. Employees returning after an extended absence may be asked to complete the appropriate attendance or HR formalities.

5. Leave During Notice or Separation

Leave during a notice period is subject to management approval and the terms of the employee's employment agreement. Unused leave, carry-forward balances, or leave encashment will be handled according to the applicable company rules and legal requirements. Employees are responsible for completing handover activities before taking planned extended leave.

6. Policy Administration

The organization may revise this policy when business conditions, statutory requirements, or internal practices change. HR is responsible for interpreting the policy and maintaining the official records. Where there is a conflict between this document and mandatory applicable law, the legal requirement will prevail.
